Hi Sandy,

Thanks for the great birthday gift. I like the shoes very much. But I'm sorry that you ___22. ___ for the USA before my birthday. You used to come to my birthday party every year, so your absence this year made me a little lonely. I want to know if you ___23. ___ to my birthday party next year.

Is it snowing in the USA now? I learned from the newspaper ___24. ___ it's been very cold there these days. If you are still in the habit of jogging in the morning, don't forget to wear enough clothes.

By the way, I have some great news. I won a prize on a TV show. The prize is a trip to Europe. I have always dreamed about visiting those beautiful castles in Europe, and now my dream can finally come true.
But I'm worried about ___25. ___ I can see many of them because I'll stay there only for a week. Hope to see you soon.

Best wishes,

Toys are items that are made to bring joy but often become trash when a child's interests change. With more and more trash hurting the Earth, some toy makers think the best way to fix this problem is to build a circular economy for toys. For example, LEGO makes its first step by inviting people to pass on bricks they aren't using to kids who need them the most. By giving the used bricks a new life, people not only give thousands of kids the chance to learn through play but also help cut the number of bricks thrown away.

Besides, Happy Baton's service allows toys to be used again by more people. Every month, families who sign up for its service can have a box of toys sent and swapped, so the learning and fun never end! Dagoma is another business joining the circular economy. It helps fix broken toys by using 3D printing. Dagoma builds a library of 3D print files of commonly lost or broken toy parts and allows people to download the files to 3D print at home for free.

While the above ways help keep toys we have in use for a longer time, whether toys are made to be made again also plays an important part in a circular economy. Therefore, many businesses are looking for new recycled materials to make sure both their toys and packaging won't trash the Earth.

 circular economy 循環經濟 brick 積木 swap 交換 printing / print 列印 recycled material 回收材料

32. What is the main idea behind the circular economy?

- (A) Sharing and reusing.
- (B) Finding good deals.
- (C) Enjoying new things.
- (D) Finding new toys for kids.

33. What else might LEGO do to promote the circular economy?

- (A) It might have new bricks made in the future work well with old bricks made years ago.
- (B) It might pay famous YouTubers to review its new items in their unboxing videos.
- (C) It might pack commonly bought items together and sell them at lower prices.
- (D) It might make environmentally friendly bricks that break into small pieces easily and in a few weeks.

34. What can we learn from the reading?

- (A) Users can borrow free tools such as printers from Dagoma's 3D printing library.
- (B) Happy Baton's users can keep the toys for as long as needed or wanted.
- (C) Making every end of a toy's service life a new beginning is also a key to building a circular economy.
- (D) Many toy makers turn to recycled materials to cut down costs and make more money.

Will you remember me, my friends?
We cried, we shouted, we laughed
For a game we won, a race we lost,
A quiz we failed, a test we passed.
Will you remember me, my friends?
We got sad, we got mad, and we even fought
Over things we didn't agree on.
Happy, excited, crazy together we felt
Over things we loved so much.
Like the branches our life will go,
Yes, for the memories three years around
I will remember you all and all.

Shall we meet? Someday around?
The flame tree we often sat by has turned red
Like it did this moment every year
A little different, a little the same.
We don't know where life will lead us to.
But our ties will always stand.
Shall we meet? Someday around?
Like the tree we will grow,
A little different, a little the same.
Our ties will be here tight and strong.
Yes, for the life we've shared three years around
We shall meet to grow new memories, not forget.

What is this thing flying in the sky?

Have you seen one like this? It is not a bird or an airplane. It is a drone, an unpiloted aircraft.

With drones becoming more popular, their price has plummeted. They used to cost a lot of money, but you are able to get a simple one for only several thousand NT dollars. You can even buy one for only NT$1,500 on the Internet when they are on sale.

Drones are sought after by not only players but also businesses. Take Amazon for example. For the past few years, the big company has been testing a new way to deliver packages by using drones. The "octocopters," Amazon's drones, can carry things up to 2.3 kg. They are able to get packages to customers in only 30 minutes. In some ways, they are more earth-friendly than trucks because they do not need gas. Also, they are sometimes faster since the traffic in the sky is much less busy than that on the roads.

However, there are some worries about delivering things with drones. For example, the drones might make too much noise, which will be troubling. What's more, if the drones are out of order, they may not work well or safely. So, it might take a few more years before the sky is packed with delivering drones.

 - (C) To become too high.
 - (D) To stay the same.

39. Which is NOT said about the “octocopters” in the reading?
- (A) What they are for.
 - (B) How fast they can deliver packages to customers.
 - (C) Whether they have passed the tests.
 - (D) Whether they use gas.
40. Which of the following is the writer's opinion?
- (A) The prices of drones are still too high.
 - (B) The drones might make too much noise.
 - (C) Although drones are more popular now, they are still too heavy.
 - (D) It might take some time before more drones are used to deliver packages.
41. What can we learn about drones from the reading?
- (A) They are not just for fun.
 - (B) They come in different shapes and sizes.
 - (C) They might kill people.
 - (D) Some can stay in the air for hours.

Are you a phubber? Do you hate phubbing? When we talk with our friends, phubbers check their phones and answer a text or check their e-mails. Thanks to this, people hate the phubbers who snub others when checking their phones. The followings are some people's ideas about phubbers.

Phil:	Once I saw a man in Costco. He was so busy talking on the phone that he didn't take any of his shopping out of the cart himself. The clerk had to help take out all his shopping items. Then, it took ten more minutes to finish checking out his shopping. Of course, all of us behind him have to wait for ten more minutes.
Jason:	When my friends and I go for a meal, we usually put all our phones on the center of the table. Anyone who touches their phone has to pay for the bill that day. One of my friends doesn't like having meals with us only because he's a phubber.
Gina:	Once I saw a phubber walking on the road. Before I had a chance to shoutout "Be careful," he was hit by a truck and sent to the hospital. How terrible!
Jenny:	When eating in the restaurant, I often see many people using their cellphones. Even when parents are talking to their kids, their kids are still using their cellphones and aren't listening to their parents carefully.

42. What is a phubber?
- (A) He / She gets new phones all the time.
 - (B) He / She checks his phone at any time.
 - (C) He / She doesn't like to make real friends.
 - (D) He / She likes talking about his / her friends.
43. Why DOESN'T a friend of Jason's want to have meals with them?
- (A) He doesn't want to hang out with his friends.
 - (B) He has to pay the meals for all his friends.

- (C) He doesn't like having meals with his friends.
(D) He can't have a meal without his phone in his hand.
44. Which is true?
- (A) Phil always goes shopping without taking his phone with him.
(B) Gina thinks that holding a phone in her hand makes her safer.
(C) Jason and most of his friends don't want to be phubbers at meals.
(D) Jenny thinks friends on Facebook are more important than real people.

Lance's Favorite in Australia

Last February, Lance visited Australia with his parents. It was his first time traveling abroad. He was excited to see animals like koalas and kangaroos, but his favorite was the special didgeridoo.

He once saw an old Australian playing it on the street. He was surprised to hear soft but beautiful music from the very long pipe. Later, he found that a didgeridoo can be as long as 300 centimeters and that the longer it is, the lower sound it makes. Besides, it is so long that the player has to sit down while playing. He wanted to buy it and play it with his sister, Lora, at her piano concert, but he wasn't sure. "What if these two don't sound well together?"

He asked for his mom's opinion. She answered, "You should worry about how to make the sound. It needs skills and a lot of practice." Lance's mom told him that he had to learn to breathe in into the nose and push air out from mouth at the same time. "Some players with experience can even make animal sounds when blowing air."

However, Lance's dad had a different opinion. He thought it is good to learn something new. He also liked the didgeridoo because it is not common to see. Also, it'd be nice to take one back so that they could remember this trip when seeing it. Now it was Lance's turn to decide....

45. What is this reading about?
- (A) Lance's parents knew a lot about Australia.
(B) Lance would like to play a game with Lora.
(C) Lance enjoyed staying in Australia.
(D) Lance wanted to buy something from Australia.
46. Which is true?
- (A) Lance wasn't sure if his sister could play the piano well at her concert.
(B) Lance's dad wanted Lance to have a didgeridoo and learn how to play it.
(C) Lora didn't travel with her family because she had to prepare for the concert.
(D) Lance wasn't surprised to see an old man playing the pipe on the street.
47. After the trip, it turned out Lance's mom was right. What happened?
- (A) Lance had trouble making sounds of koalas and kangaroos.
(B) Lance couldn't pick up the special way of breathing.
(C) Lance thought of the family trip when seeing a didgeridoo.
(D) Lance was happy to learn how to breathe from an old man.

A Gatekeeper for Saving Lives

Last week, Judy was unhappy. Her favorite Japanese idol killed himself. Nobody knows the reason. Judy's friend, Emily, is a gatekeeper for taking care of people's terrible feelings and mental health. She told Judy, "If your idol calls for help first, a gatekeeper may find some problems. Before he got this idea of hurting himself, a gatekeeper would find something wrong."

Judy feels interested in being a gatekeeper. She wants to know more, so she studies useful books in the library. A gatekeeper is always there to listen to people in need and help them to connect with others. These people may want to end their lives because they always fail to let the past go. They want to be the best in the world, but they find it is not possible. A gatekeeper encourages these sad and helpless people to meet other friends, look for doctors, and talk to others.

Finally, with the study on a gatekeeper, Judy decides to be one. She hopes to be helpful. She has to take the nine-month courses and passes three real-time meeting tests to be a gatekeeper for sure.

48. What does connect mean in the reading?
- (A) Go on the Internet.
 - (B) Make friends with others.
 - (C) Stay at home or school.
 - (D) Do a lot of housework.
49. What does Judy think about being a gatekeeper?
- (A) A gatekeeper has to do lots of interviews with people.
 - (B) It is easy to talk to a gatekeeper.
 - (C) Being a gatekeeper in someone's life is wonderful.
 - (D) A gatekeeper always knows what happened.

50. Below is a real-time meeting test for Judy.

A student prepared for the big test for a long time. To his surprise, he got poor grades. He didn't believe in himself and wanted to give up everything. He left school, but he didn't want to go home. He called for help....

What might Judy say to encourage the student?

- (A) Do you feel excited when you see your bad grades?
- (B) Please stay home and study much harder.
- (C) Maybe you can go shopping with friends.
- (D) If you still feel sad, please try to tell your friends or ask the doctor for help.
