Hey guys, I just bought all the ingredients for the barbecue party tonight!

Thanks! How much did you spend in total?

It was NT$3,000, but because I paid with my credit card, I only spent NT$2,700.

Wow! Why's that?

The clerk told me I could get a discount if I used my credit card.

I told you guys to use credit cards and mobile payments! They're super convenient and fast.

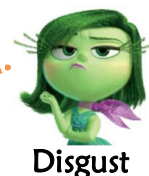

I tried, but I still think cash is the best way to pay...

I think cash is dirty. I don't use it very often.

I know, right?

Speaking of mobile payments, do you recommend any? There are so many choices. How do I choose the best one?

I use Fine Pay mainly. It has 1% cash back every time I use it. That's not a lot. But it all adds up.

Jing: Andy, why are you in a hurry? Where are you going?
 Andy: I'm going to find an ATM!
 Jing: What happened? Tell me! Maybe I can help.
 Andy: I took a trip to Tainan in May last year and stayed at King's Hotel. A man from the hotel just called. He said a clerk made a mistake and booked twelve rooms for me in May this year. So, I need to use the ATM to get my money back. I have to go now!
 Jing: Wait a minute! There might be something wrong with this.
 Andy: What are you talking about?
 Jing: The man might be a fraud. I saw it on TV. After you follow the steps and press the numbers at an ATM, the bad guys will take all your money away.
 Andy: Come on! The man on the phone isn't a fraud. He has all the right information. He has my phone number, my birthday, my hotel room number, and my travel schedule last year. He even gave me the bank's phone number. I called and checked with the bank. They said I did pay NT$48,000 for twelve rooms in May this year.
 Jing: The man on the phone gave you the bank's number? You should surf the Net for the bank's number! The number from the man might be wrong, too!
 Andy: Oh, no! I think you're right! I'm lucky to run into you before I go to the ATM.
 Jing: You should always be careful. There are more and more frauds these days.

No Drunk Driving

People care about road safety. In the past, the government also did a lot of promotion on road safety, especially prohibiting drunk driving. However, there are still many cases of drunk driving. To reduce the number of drunk driving cases, the government passed a law amendment with higher fines on drunk drivers (or a new law, in short). From July 2019, people in Taiwan had to follow the new law. The table shows the fines in the old law and the new one.

	Fines in the OLD law	Fines in the NEW law
Drunk scooter and motorcycle riders	NT$15,000	First time: NT$15,000 ~ NT$90,000 Second time: NT$90,000
Drunk car drivers	NT$19,500	First time: NT$30,000 ~ NT$120,000 Second time: NT$120,000
When drivers refuse to take a breath alcohol test	NT$90,000	First time: NT$180,000 Second time: NT$360,000
People in the same car		NT$600 ~ 3,000 for people above 18 and under 70

Urban Legend

Two best friends, Meg and Samantha, lived in the same room of the college dorm. One day, Samantha went out for a party with her date while Meg stayed back to study for the upcoming final exams. Samantha headed back to the dorm around 2 a.m. When she got into the room, lights are all turned off. She did not turn on the lights as her friend was asleep.

Early in the morning, Samantha tried to wake Meg up to talk about the exams, but Meg didn't respond. Samantha hesitantly uncovered her face to wake her up. She got terrified to see Meg's face turn black and blue and all the blood on the bed. She fell on the floor with shock, looking up to see Meg's study table was all messed up. That was the moment that she found a note on the wall, "Aren't you glad you didn't turn on the lights?"

Footsteps

"Walk a little slower, Daddy!"

Said a little boy so small.

"I'm following in your footsteps

And I don't want to fall.

Someday when I'm all grown up,

You're what I want to be.

Then I will have a little child,

Who'll want to follow me.

Sometimes your steps are very fast, And I would want to lead just right,

Sometimes they're hard to see; And know that I was true;

So walk a little slower, Daddy, So, walk a little slower, Daddy,

For you are leading me. For I must follow you."

45. What can we know from the writer?
(A) He thinks his dad can do better. (B) His father sometimes is not good to him.
