Sylvia was a Mexican(墨西哥的) girl and her family moved to Westminster, a city in the USA, in the summer of 1944. On Sylvia's first day of school, she had on her new shoes and she was very happy about her new school. It was clean and big, and there was a big playground outside. Before class, she was at her locker(置物櫃) and then a white boy came to her. He said, "Go back to the Mexican school. This is not your school." Sylvia was sad and angry. Her aunt came to school and talked to the teacher, but the teacher did nothing. Sylvia didn't know why she couldn't study here. She spoke good English and she loved studying. She was a good student. Was it because of her skin(皮膚) color?

At that time, white people and people of color went to different schools. Besides, people of color couldn't go for a swim with white people. Sylvia's father wanted his children to have the same chance(機會) like everyone else. He met other Mexican people and they fought for their rights together. They went to the court(法院). At the court, a man stood up and said, "People should live together and young people learn to work together at schools. It is not right to put them in different places just because they have different skin colors." The judge(法官) said the same thing.

Sylvia was not sure about going back to school. Her mom said to her, "We fight for this together. Don't be sad. Be strong and enjoy your studying." A few days later, Sylvia went back to school. Some classmates still didn't like her, but she was fine with that. She knew her family was with her all the time. There were still some nice students and luckily, at the end of the day, she made a friend. By the end of the school year, she made many friends with different colors. Because of Sylvia's family, she could enjoy her school life and Sylvia was very thankful.

Hi, I'm Dr. Alex. I'm going camping with three children, Mickey, Gentry, and Amy. Mickey is a smart boy. He is sitting behind me and telling me the things he learned from the science class yesterday. Gentry is a happy heavy boy. He is sitting next to me. He is asking me to take him to a restaurant for his favorite food after camping. Amy is the only girl in the car. She is cute and sweet. She is thinking about something. I think she's worrying about Conan.

Oh, Conan was not in the car. His parents are my old friends, and they live next to my house. I knew Conan from the first day he came to the world. I am just like his uncle. The three children in my car are Conan's classmates. Conan told us to go first. He is coming to join us after he solved (解決) the case (案件).
